ABOUT THE AFRICA PROPTech FORUM

Taking place for the first time on the 1st of October, the Africa PropTech Forum will feature international keynote speakers, discussions and networking opportunities for all stakeholders operating in and around the proptech space. This event is made possible by a collaboration between PropTech Africa, WeWork and API Events.

The event is specially designed to cater for startups who are positioning themselves to disrupt the African real estate value chain – innovators can use this platform to network, pitch and gain best practice insights from industry, seed funders and others interested in transforming the business of real estate.

The Africa PropTech Forum and is free to attend for API Summit delegates and invited guests. This standalone forum forms part of the 10th annual API Summit experience and attendees will be able to attend an insider-only site tour of WeWork's office space and engage with their African leadership team. BROUGHT TO YOU BY:

Proptech is changing the way that the property industry operates through numerous tech-driven interventions. Proptech Africa aims to connect the proptech community in Africa in order to create meaningful interaction and relationships. At the same time we aim to promote the sector to the property industry as a whole in order to raise awareness and drive growth within the proptech sector on the continent. Throughout all of our activities we leverage and grow international relationships to promote the exciting African proptech ecosystem globally.

AFRICA PROPERTY
INVESTMENT SUMMIT

Hosted by African Property Events, the African Property Investment (API) Summit has helped formalise Africa's emerging real estate markets over the past decade. During this period the investment case on the continent has evolved, and today Africa's divergent markets require dynamic and inspired business strategies that prioritize affordability, future demand, sustainability and inclusive economic growth. As we move into the next cycle of development.
